

Add Different Question Types

The “Add Question” popup allows a course creator to select from three question types: True/False, Multiple Choice, or Free Text.

The screenshot shows a window titled "Add Question" with a close button (X) in the top right corner. The form contains the following elements:

- A text input field labeled "Question".
- A dropdown menu labeled "Type of Question" with "Multiple Choice" selected.
- A section labeled "Answers" with a plus sign icon. Below it is a note: "An answer of 'All of the above' will receive special treatment, as will 'None of the above' when paired with 'All of the above'."
- Two checkboxes: "Randomize the order of the answers" and "Allow student to select more than one answer".
- A text input field labeled "Answer Notes (shown during review)".
- A note at the bottom: "This question counts towards the passing grade as part of the question group."
- Two buttons at the bottom right: "Save" and "Cancel".

For multiple choice questions, the user can select to randomize the order of the answers.

A question can have multiple correct answers. If a question has multiple correct answers, all must be selected in order to receive full credit. The phrases “All of the above” and “none of the above” can be used as answers.

Both “All of the above” and “None of the above” can be used as an answer choice. If those two answer choices are written exactly as shown (without quotations), KAStrack will not randomize their placement. They will always be shown as the final multiple-choice answer options.

Answer Notes can be used to include extra information about an answer is correct or why certain answers are wrong. They are shown to users in the Course Review.
